The Week in Oxford County

Russell L. Wentzell, 67, of Andover, and Myra E. Chaisson, 7, of Cambridge, Mass., were killed Saturday afternoon when the tractor went out of control on the Wentzell farm.

Wentzell was reportedly standing on a draw-bar behind the child who was operating the farm tractor which was drawing a two-wheel trailer loaded with pulpwood. Mr. Wentzell had been a resident of Andover for over 50 years.

directors have appointed the building committee. Albert Soule of South Paris and Robert Sessions of Norway are co-chairmen of the building committee.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The power will be off in town Sunday, August 12, from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m.

The tax bills will be mailed the last of this week or the first of next week. I would again like to remind the taxpayers of Bethel that the tax rate in town increased from 30 mills or $30 per thousand valuation to 38½ mills or $38.50 per thousand dollars valuation. This tax rate increase is caused by the $37,800.00 increase in funds raised and appropriated at the annual town meeting.

The street markings were painted this past week by the highway department. The diagonal parking lanes were widened to allow easier parking. The parking laws will now be enforced. With the newly painted parking areas and the no parking signs on Main Street, there is no excuse for parking violators. Tickets will be issued for violators and the fine will be 50 cents.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 31, 1962
To the Editor of the Bethel Citizen:

Dear Sir:

Your editorial in last week's Citizen about the "stranger in our midst" struck a sympathetic chord for us. From time immemorial the role of the stranger in the community has been defended, denied and discussed. The Biblical injunction that the stranger within the walls be given food, shelter, and lodging became the criterion for proper conduct for the well meaning inhabitants of the community in which the stranger sojourned. The New England colonial inns and hostleries were celebrated in song and story. Longfellow glorified these inns in poetry that is familiar to every school child in America.

However, although a norm for conduct toward the stranger developed through the ages, nobody ever took the trouble to define the term "stranger." A century ago he may have been a resident of a village five or ten miles away. Who is that stranger to-day?

Last Saturday we drove my sister-in-law to the Portland Airport for a return trip to mid-town Manhattan in New York City. The telephone at our Songo home rang less than ten minutes after we arrived. It was my sister-in-law reporting that she was safely at home. Do you realize that it took her less time to reach New York City from Portland than it took me to get to Bethel from Portland with a half hour stop-over for lunch? I have taken a plane from LaGuardia Airport in New York City to Miami, Florida, at 9 a. m. I have arrived in Miami in ample time for noon day lunch after first showering, shaving and dressing in Miami for the occasion. I can reach any place on earth in less than twenty four hours. I have planned to Washington, D. C., in less time than it takes me to get to my office from my home, a short nine stations on the subway. Space has been completely annihilated. Within a decade it will be possible for anybody to live in Bethel and work in Boston. A jet plane will get you there in a matter of minutes.

Under such circumstances the term "stranger" assumes an entirely new connotation. Certainly nobody in Bethel ever thinks of a resident of Gilead or Newry as a stranger. Similarly the next generation will be able to reach Boston, New York, Philadelphia and even Chicago with such rapidity and frequency that the residents of these urban areas will hardly be strangers to residents of rural areas such as Bethel.

In the last few decades the insularity of many rural areas has been self-imposed. The city dweller was viewed with suspicion. Perhaps the countryman felt that the only way to avoid the pitfalls of the cities was to discourage the city dweller from larrying too long in the country. However fast cars and faster planes have introduced a flow of traffic between city and country that like the tides cannot be turned back. In Bethel there is the added factor of the N. T. L. which annually brings visitors from the four corners of the earth into the village. The Sunday River Ski Area will continue to attract urbanites who love the sport. Above all there is Telstar, the new international communications satellite which is destined to revolutionize communication over vast distances. Within this decade the residents of Bethel will be able to dial any place on earth at a modest cost. International television will bring the entire world into their homes. How can people and places that will become so commonplace be called "stranger."

The diminution of time and space is a fact that is beyond our control. It is useless to argue its desirability. The question is most because the situation is what the French call "fait accompli." Perhaps those who are addicted to the stranger complex ought to re-examine the basic elements of strangeness. It may well be that they will discover that they hardly know who their neighbors will be tomorrow because of the dizzy pace at which we are racing. It could be that our children in their time will greet visitors from Venus and Mars. Is that is true how can

Bethel, Maine

Dear Editor:

In the editorial column of your paper dated 8-2-62 I read—with interest—a letter signed by the Executive Committee, Local #77, Locke Mills, Maine. This letter stated that for only $3.00 per month in union dues the employees of Ekco Tebbets, Inc. received the following benefits:

1. Job protection thru seniority.
2. The right to collectively bargain.
3. A grievance procedure.
4. Medical insurance.
5. Life insurance.
6. Seven paid holidays.
7. One to three weeks vacation with pay.
8. Pay increases (within the capability of the Company).

It is obvious that the Executive Committee intended to convey the implication that it was necessary to join the union—and pay dues—in order to get the foregoing benefits. I must take exception to this portion of their letter by outlining below the benefits we had before this plant was unionized in 1956. They are as follows:

1. Job security thru seniority "as a principle, together with the ability to perform the work" (This is as the present contract reads). Individual seniority has been recognized within the scope of the above statement for many years.

This statement is supported by the fact that 70% of the employees here were hired before 1956.

- 4 employees have over 40 years service.
- 8 employees over 30 yrs. service.
- 17 employees over 20 yrs. service.
- 20 employees over 10 yrs. service.
- 36 employees over 6 yrs. service.

2. Medical & Life Insurance (Group Insurance). An insurance program has been in effect since 1945 with periodic adjustments to include dependents.

3. Seven paid holidays. With the exception of one holiday (Veterans' Day) we have enjoyed this fringe benefit since 1945.
4. One to three weeks vacation with pay.

The Company has provided a paid vacation for us since the date of acquisition in 1945. From 1945 thru 1953 the policy was a maximum of two weeks with pay. In 1954 three weeks with pay were granted to all of us who had more than fifteen years service with the Company.

5. Pay increases (within the capability of the Company). Periodic pay increases have been policy with the Company. An extensive incentive system was in effect prior to unionization.

I expect any "worthwhile organization" to take credit for services and benefits when the credit claimed is a fact. The term "worthwhile organization" cannot be anything but questionable when the Executive Committee finds itself in a position where it must borrow credit that it doesn't deserve from another source in its campaign efforts to gain membership.

An employee of Ekco Tebbets, Inc.

To the Editor:

The union is evidently stung into a defensive position. There is no question it has a place in industry in dealing with larger corporations. But it is not necessary in personal concerns such as ours. They allege many benefits but do not guarantee them. Undoubtedly these have been obtained in some degree or other in many places. Some of them are already given by our employers and others will follow as they can be afforded. It is hoped that employees will not have to learn the hard way that these illusory benefits forced by joining will cost added expense, loss of personal friendly employer relations, loss of prestige in seeking other employment and particularly loss of personal freedom and independence in right to work.

To the Editor:

The recent child drowning at Watchic Lake and editorial comment on similar occurrences highlights the apparent inability of by-standers to be of assistance either from apathy or inexperience. This latter cause should remind us of the value of our Red Cross swimming program. This year ten Jr. Lifesavers won badges. Any of these would have known what to do for someone in trouble. In addition to them, the pupils in the lower classifications would have known how to take care of themselves better.

The town is to be congratulated on voting to finance the major cost of transportation, and on having such co-operative parents, and on the Red Cross providing such able instruction, and on the efforts of all participants.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

DOG DAYS

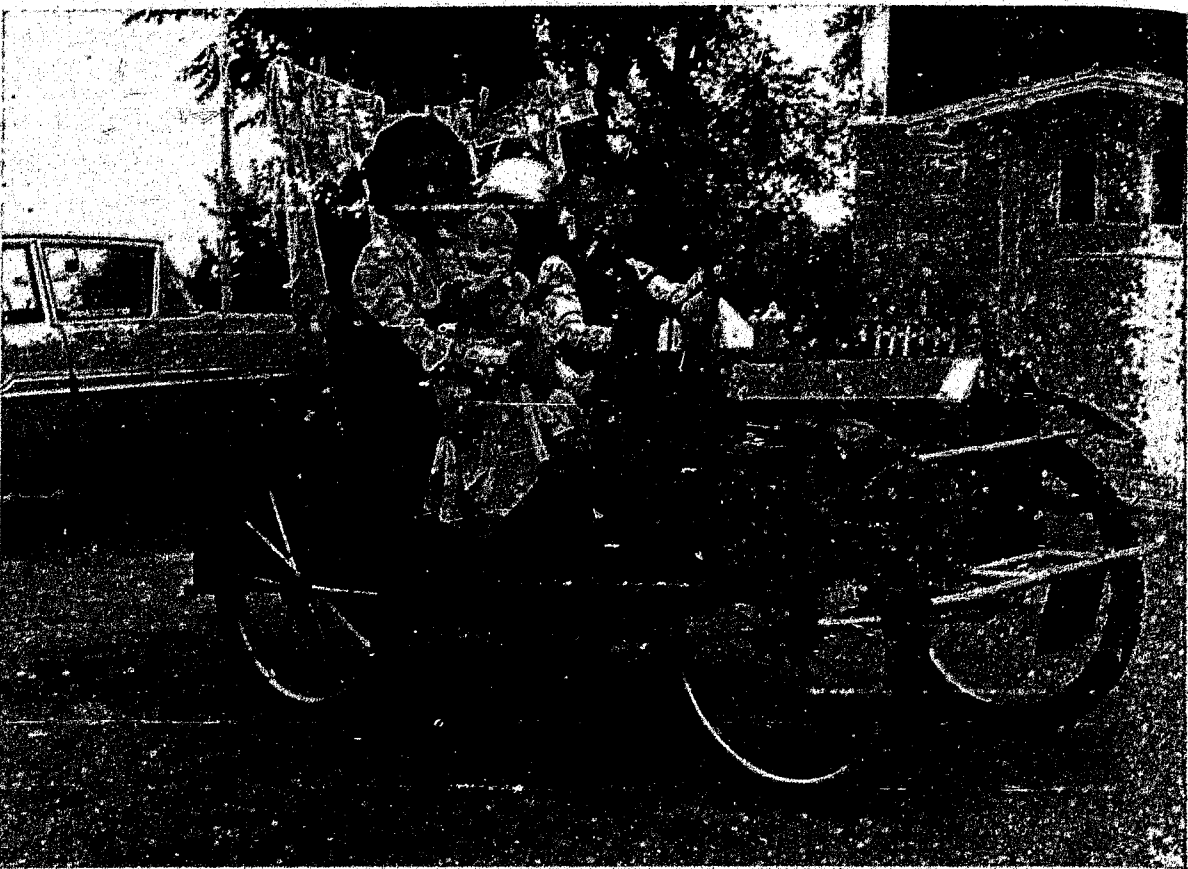

August would be psychologically more endurable if so many citizens would not repeat so often that it is the humidity and not the heat.

Scientific weather prognosticators speak of the Bermuda High and what it means to our weather pattern, but the countryman takes the eighth month in stride. He knows there will be days of excessive moisture in the air, stuffy nights, and sudden thunderstorms when the sky gods joust with flashing spears.

There is the feel of ripeness brooding over the countryside. Side-hill fields and upland pastures turn amber brown with sun-cured grasses; goldenrod holds yellow flowers on stiff spikes and sumacs; wine-red candles glow on scraggly branches.

Mists stretch over the creek bottoms at dawn and patches of gray flannel fog hang on Fredonia, Kans., Citizen: "Now farmers who do not have a life 'history' of their farm on file with the agricultural department won't be given grain allotments, so apparently you haven't a farm unless you have a farm. It all boils down to the fact that the independent farmer is being penalized for exercising the freedom of choice which has set the farmer as a man apart for many years. Small wonder people are leaving the farms. They are being driven from them by farm

Miss Judy Angevine and Lee Blake in the prize-winning car.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in reference to the letter to the editor in the Bethel Citizen published on July 28, 1962. The letter mentioned above stated, "that they will have lost their right to work if they don't want to strike if ordered." This person or persons are not or do not want to be adequately informed about organized labor.

In the first place a strike is not ordered. A secret ballot vote must be taken. This vote must consist of two-thirds or more of the total number of employees eligible to vote. This procedure is very democratic just the same as our town, city, county, state and national elections are held. If it is not the majority that governs then who is it?

These public agencies, that the person or persons mentioned above coming to the aid of the industries in our town, should be broadminded enough to take in consideration of the faithful and loyal employees who have given and who will undoubtedly continue to give the best years of their lives working for their employers.

If the employers had wanted to place more consideration toward their employees, then the employers should have given more thought about the hourly rate and fringe benefits years back instead of staying with the federal minimum wage or a nickel above up to now. I know that time and events are marching forward so fast that it is difficult to keep up with all changes, but the time has come for the Bethel workers to speak up and vote for unions in order to better their lives and future generations.

Thursday, August 9:

Read John 7:30-37
In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink. (John 7:37.)

One day we went to see an ancient and historic castle. There were numerous interesting things to be seen, but to me the most interesting of them all was the well inside the castle. In a time of siege a garrison could hold out for quite a long time; for they had an unfailing supply of water—a well within.

Some people depend upon things outside themselves. Some live for their work or for pleasure, or to achieve some ambition.

The Christian has a well within. Jesus said, "The water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." All those who trust Christ find that they have an unfailing source of strength.

PRAYER: O God, our Father, who are the source of all strength, help us this day to drink from the unfailing fountain of life. For all the tasks we have to do and the temptations we have to face, may we find within us the strength Christ promised to all who trust Him. In His blessed name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
The Christian's security is in Christ's indwelling presence.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Korhonen

KORHONEN - DURAN

Miss Gloria Duran, daughter of James and Elizabeth Duran, exchanged wedding vows with Paul Korhonen. The double ring ceremony was used. Paul is the son of Freda Robertson and the late John Korhonen.

The wedding took place in Newry on the afternoon of July 28. Miss Esther A. Haskard from Columbia Falls, Maine, was the presiding minister at the ceremony. Music was provided for the wedding by the bride's mother. It was in recorded form consisting of Psalms from Holy Scripture set to organ music. The record player was attended by Clyde Woods Jr. from Rumford. James Duran, the bride's father, proudly gave her in marriage. Attending the bride were Sandra Duran as maid of honor and Ann Duran as bridesmaid. The groom was attended by David Head of West Bethel, as best man. A Japanese silk, lace covered dress, a pearl crowned shoulder veil and a Colonial bouquet of red roses was the becoming attire worn and carried by the bride. Her maid of honor wore blue dress of Japanese silk. Each carried a Colonial bouquet of Shasta daisies in complimenting colors.

Following the ceremony a reception was held also in Newry. A three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom and served by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Raymond Ball of Rumford. Another aunt, Mrs. Clyde Woods, also of Rumford served punch. Other refreshments were served buffet style. Miss Ann Duran circulated the guest book. Miss Sandra Duran, sister of the groom from Rumford Point, displayed the gifts. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Paul Korhonen left for a trip to Canada. In the near future they will be residing in Newport, Maine.

RECLAIMED PONDS OFTEN PROVIDE GOOD LATE-SEASON TROUT FISHING

"Where can I catch some brook trout in the middle of the summer?" This is a common question in Maine, and the answer is frequently overlooked.

Ask a fishery biologist, and he'll probably recommend one of the more than 80 reclaimed ponds which provide plenty of fun for Maine fishermen. They're stocked regularly to keep the trout population at a good level, once the competing species of fish have been removed chemically.

Open to everyone, young and old, the reclaimed ponds have a few restrictions: no live fish as bait, no ice fishing, and five fish daily limit. With these exceptions, they've fished just like any natural trout pond.

At the start of the open water season, reclaimed ponds are fished hard, and success is high. Later, when other waters begin to produce and it takes a bit more work to catch trout in the reclaimed ponds, some anglers tend to forget about them.

But the ponds still contain
